Welcome to the fifth newsletter of the DIGI HELICON project!

We are delighted to bring you this new issue dedicated to the progress of the DIGI HELICON project, a European initiative that aims to support artists (whether beginners, experienced or from vulnerable groups) in developing their digital skills. As a valued member of our network, we would like to keep you informed of our objectives, activities and progress since the launch of the project. DIGI HELICON is a project funded by the European Union as part of its adult education cooperation partnerships.

Our ambition is clear: to help artists strengthen their digital skills, boost their employability, encourage cultural entrepreneurship and promote intercultural dialogue and social inclusion.

Final event: the Digi Helicon National Info Day in partner countries

We are delighted to announce the Digi Helicon – National Info Day, a final event organised simultaneously in each of the partner countries.

This is a key moment in the project, designed to share the final results, present the tools developed and celebrate the work accomplished with all stakeholders: artists, trainers, cultural institutions and partner organisations.

About the event

The National Info Day marks the final major milestone of the DIGI HELICON project.

Each partner country will organize a dedicated day to:

- present the final results and deliverables of the project (online courses, teaching resources, toolkit for artists);
- highlight the work of participants in the national workshops;
- offer a live demonstration of the online course platform and the Virtual Exhibition, an innovative gallery allowing European artists to exhibit their work in a panoramic digital space accessible to all;
- promote exchanges between cultural sector actors, decision-makers, training organisations and local artists.

What participants will discover:

1. The results of the DIGI HELICON project

After three years of collaboration, the partner will present all of the outputs:

- the online course for artists wishing to strengthen their digital presence;
- the training modules developed by the partners;
- the best practices identified in each country;

2. The European Virtual Exhibition

Participants will have the opportunity to explore the virtual gallery created as part of the project. This online exhibition allows artists to showcase their work to a transnational audience, while testing new forms of cultural mediation. For many, this is their first immersive and digital experience.

3. Feedback from national workshops

Trainers and artists will share their experiences of the workshops held in partner countries: challenges encountered, lessons learned, impact on their digital practices, new professional opportunities, etc.

What now?

The National Info Day marks the official end of the project's activities, but certainly not the end of the momentum created by DIGI HELICON.

The adventure continues, and several avenues are already opening up to extend the project's impact beyond its conclusion.

Participants will be able to continue exploring the resources created as part of the project, continue learning at their own pace and revisit the Virtual Exhibition, which will remain accessible so that everyone can admire the works on display and discover the artists involved.

This post-project phase is also a valuable opportunity to reflect on future partnerships, imagine new initiatives and strengthen the links between the organisations, trainers and artists who participated in the programme.

Acknowledgements

We would like to express our sincere gratitude to all the partners, trainers, artists, contributors and participants who made this adventure possible.

Your involvement, creativity and enthusiasm have transformed DIGI HELICON into a meaningful, innovative and inclusive European initiative.
